This Week at Borlase...

Welcome back from what I hope was a restful and enjoyable summer break. The weather on Wednesday and Thursday signalled clearly that the holiday was over but, talking with students, the vast majority seem happy to be back at school (even if some are less keen than others to admit it!). The first week has now been completed with Staff INSET training taking place on Monday and Tuesday detailing key business for the school. We welcomed in our new Year 11 and 13 cohorts on Wednesday before the whole school returned on Thursday, larger than ever, with a total of 1,217 students on roll.

Fresh from their Transition Camps the previous week, Year 7s have had a busy time. They were the only year group to get into the Chapel for their first assembly at which they sang the school song with great gusto. They have then finished the week with the Performing Arts day, learning dance, drama and musical routines, performed to each other at the end of the day in the Theatre including the school's "second song", Wonderwall!

While the year may have only started officially this week, it didn't stop summer being busy in school. Site works took place and students received their exam results but the rowers, the rugby players and the hockey players have all been in too for pre-season training. I'd also like to celebrate with you the achievements of Amy and Lauren, both in Year 13, who represented Great Britain at the Coupe de la Jeunesse and Junior World Championships respectively, both of them winning bronze medals in their respective boats. Congratulations, Amy and Lauren!

Our introductory assembly addressed the "World Class Basics" which rugby coach, Iain McGeechan, espoused on the 1996 Lions tour to Argentina and in a more recent edition of the High Performance podcast as the key to elite performance. That is our aspiration and that is our focus, alongside the development of our Character Education programme through tutor time this year. These are simple but important messages which will be common to almost every school up and down the country. Last year we recommended the drama series, Adolescence, to our parent body. Now it is Channel 4's fly-on-the-school-wall documentary, Educating Yorkshire. Returning to Thornhill Community Academy 10 years after the first series, it lifts the lid on some of the challenges that schools and students face and how, together, we can work to resolve them. We won't be changing te digna sequere any time soon but, as a catchy alternative, you could do a lot worse than Thornhill's Work Hard; Be Nice.

At the end of a short but busy and enjoyable first week back, I hope that you get time to relax over the weekend. One person who will be doing anything but that is our Head of Politics, Mrs Pryor, who will be riding 56 miles alongside Sir Chris Hoy and Sir Andy Murray in the Tour de Four, raising money for cancer screening and raising awareness. If you would like to support her, please visit her sponsorship link here.

Have a lovely weekend and see you back next week
